

Impossible Structure

One Ranging and One Trending

This will be a quick lecture.

When we have one ranging and one trending asset, it is not possible to rotate the trending one to match the ranging one.

In the above chart, rotating the orange line clockwise to a horizontal position involves reducing the multiplier to 0.

This will mean that we are not trading the orange asset at all. In that case, we are just left with the green line.

Though that said, the green asset is ranging well so in theory we can just trade the green asset without pairing it with another asset.